Dear Mr. Harris,

With this letter I just want to thank you for the product you produce.

The company I work for, Sláturfélag, is one of the largest in meat processing and slaughtering in Iceland, with three sheep slaughterhouses and one combined cattle and pig slaughterhouse.

As we have a pen, where the live stock is kept, directly connected to our slaughterhouses there is always a risk of getting insect into our processing area. In previous years, we have always had to be careful, especially in the summertime, to close all gaps between these areas and keep door closed and airtight. Even after installing insect-killing devices from one of your competitor, we still had the problem and the devices did not last long in the harsh environment we are dealing with (strong soap, sterilizers and lot of wapor).

Last year, before summer, we purchased five 492DGS-2, stainless steel devices from your company.

After the installation, we have had totally minimum problem with insects and do not have to make these strict cautions we used to.

As the devices are totally stainless, they still look like new.

In the future, Insect-o-cutor will be the brand we will purchase for our factories in Iceland.

Regards
